- From Sibenik turn left just before the bridge on the river Krka.

If you are coming by train or bus: the venue of the festival is 300 m away from the city center.

For more information about accommodation, visit tourist board web site: http://www.tz-knin.hr

The project aims:

This festival is stimulating measure for the development of rural tourism, the increase of self-employment of local population, improving farm production and service industries, encouraging volunteerism and conservation of natural and cultural heritage.

In case you did not know:

The city of Knin is so-called "city of the seven rivers" - the area of MKnin runs seven rivers and streams. The Krka river, its tributaries Butiznica, Orasnica, Kosovcica and Krcic and tributaries of Butiznica-Radljevac and Marcinkovac.

KRKA RIVER

Krka river springs near Knin, under 22 meter high waterfall "Topoljski buk" or "Krcic", which is created by a tributary of the Krka river - the river Krcic. The total length of the river, with the flooded part, is 72.5 km, of which 49 km makes fresh water aquifer, and 23.5 km is brackish aquifer.

KRCIC

Krcic is ten km long river which ends its water flow entering the Knin field, in which swoops down as a 22-meter high waterfall Krcic.

KNIN FORTRESS

West of Knin town is a medieval fortress built in the 10th century. The final appearance is received in the early 18th century, when it was separated from the hill Spas with the artificial cross section. The fortress is one of the greatest military fortifications in Croatia and Europe.

DINARA

Dinara is a mountain of the Dinaric highlands, on the border of the Republic of Croatian and Bosnia and Herzegovina. Dinara divides Livno field from Sinj field and it is the natural border between Bosnia and Herzegovina and Croatia. The highest peak, Troglav (1913 m), is located in Bosnia and Herzegovina, and the top Sinjal (1831m) is the highest peak in Croatia.

Therefore if you are tired of the city and looking for a change, if you love the natural environment and committed to the traditional culture of village, even if you have not but want to try, come and discover the natural and cultural values of the city of Knin.

You probably have more idea in mind, so come and relive it.
